

Transform your meeting room into a digital collaboration suite

Most workplaces go through the same routines, every day of the week. Bored employees sit through meeting after meeting as a presenter flips through countless slides, with a disengaged audience watching on. These 2-dimensional meetings are a constant reality for many workers, where participants are passive observers in the room, resulting in diminished engagement, productivity, and enthusiasm for work.

Every modern organization has invested in the latest workplace technology to encourage their employees work smarter and faster, but the outdated meeting culture of the static presentation means this technology is underutilized, and not adding value to the business. High-tech meeting rooms with interactive displays and video conferencing solutions are commonplace but lack a solution to transform the traditional meeting into a creating, effective working session.

Prysm-powered rooms transcend the traditional meeting room and passive presentation experience, making meetings creative, collaborative and immersive.

Bringing together existing applications and content, Prysm visual workplace solution allows all meeting participants to experience and interact with dynamic content, tools, and applications side-by-side on a single digital canvas, driving ideas to outcome.

How it works

Prysm-powered rooms are as simple as connecting an appliance to an existing meeting room experience, transforming the high-tech meeting space into a full digital collaboration suite. Prysm also transcends this traditional 'in room' experience, allowing remote team members and customers to actively collaborate as part of the meeting simultaneously with the use of a Prysm license. As Prysm digital workplace sits in a virtual environment, content remains available, even when the meeting owner isn't.

Accelerated ROI

Prysm-powered rooms are helping organizations realize accelerated ROI on their existing workplace technology and meeting room investments, through bringing their applications and tools together into a single digital collaboration suite, making meetings more meaningful, and generating faster decision making.

Is your organization ready to turn its everyday meetings into advanced collaboration sessions?

PRYSM®

Please consult DEKOM how to transform your meeting rooms. DEKOM gathered vast experience, working with 3.000 international organisations in over 130 countries. Being the only European player certified for PRYSM